PREFATORY NOTE

As indicated on the title page, this is a reprint from plates of pages 145–177, 183–226 of the "List of books on the Philippine Islands," which were devoted to the American occupation of the Philippine Islands. There have been a few changes, namely, the addition of a few of the more important Government documents and of articles in periodicals published subsequently to the issue of the original list.

The list is issued to meet requests for titles on the policy of expansion in the acquisition of the Philippines.

For convenience a short list of pros and cons on the subject of expansion is given on pages 90–91.

"The writer . . . was led to write this book by a wish to set forth the natives in a more favorable light than has been done by most recent writers. This more favorable estimate is extended also in part to the Spanish administration. The first half of the book deals with the general history, geography, resources, etc., of the group, while the second treats in detail of the various tribes, with abundant photographic illustrations."
Contains chapters on the religious orders, secret societies, resources, commerce, forests, minerals, the native races, with descriptions of Luzon, Mindanao, the Visayas, Palawan or Paragua. The American administration is also studied.

"The official meteorological observer at Hongkong complained to the American authorities of the Philippines because the Jesuit observatory at Manila telegraphed warnings of typhoons to Hongkong. This, it appears, was held to be contrary to international courtesy, which forbids a scientific institution to predict storms in any country except that in which it is situated; and the Jesuits were accordingly forbidden to announce the routes of approaching typhoons in Hongkong and Singapore."
